Quelques extraits des témoignages de la première édition, été 2010 :

- Sandrine Bédard-Brisson, employée « Jeunes au travail » à la Coop la maison verte : « Cet emploi m'a permis d'avoir un bon contact avec le marché du travail. Durant mon emploi à la coopérative, j'ai appris à travailler de plus en plus vite, à coopérer avec mes collègues de travail et à comprendre le fonctionnement d'une coopérative. De plus, grâce à l'expérience que cet emploi d'été m'a offert, j'ai pu me trouver un emploi à temps partiel pendant l'année scolaire. »
- Jason Hughes, Coop la maison verte : « We were happy to participate in the program and look forward to helping someone with there first job next year. »
- Geneviève Plantin, employée « Jeunes au travail » chez Dagwoods : « Puisqu'au Dagwoods, les clients sont à la fois francophones et anglophones, mon anglais s'est un peu amélioré. Durant la première semaine, j'avais beaucoup de mal à comprendre certaines personnes anglophones, surtout lorsque celles-ci avaient des accents étrangers prononcés. Puis, je me suis habituée à les entendre et je comprends maintenant beaucoup mieux les personnes qui parlent anglais. »
- Dave Tamas, vice-président de Burritoville : " We were extremely happy with our experience in this program. Shadel was such a courteous, respectful and hard-working employee that we made the decision to keep her on for an additional 2 weeks after the program ended... "
- Shadel Williams, employée de Burritoville : " I enjoyed my work experience at Burritoville. It was a pleasant and interested place for me to work. I learned a lot at my job such as making new dishes and selling food to the clients. I am so thankful for having a job. Thank you very much. "

- Sensei Andrew Watson, MWRA: " This summer employment experience has allowed these three young men to recognize their strengths and well as the areas that require development. It has given them the opportunity to learn, to teach and acquire a sense of who they by learning what they are good at. It has taught them the importance of responsibility, team work, developing a strong work ethic, humility and accountability. Early exposure to responsibilities that are part of the employment experience sets the stage for future successes. "
- Andrei Matache, employé de MWRA : " The summer job went smoothly. Although I had to get up early (during the summer) and I had to work, at least it was fun work. I was happy at my job, because no matter which task was assigned to me, I managed to learn new things, acquire new skills, and be happy all at the same time. "
- Hans Heisinger, directeur général du Centre jeunesse-emploi de Notre-Dame-de-Grâce : " Le travail d'été de notre jeune participant a contribué à la sensibilisation de notre communauté relativement au compostage communautaire. Il a permis à Richard d'acquérir en même temps une expérience professionnelle enrichissante et motivante. "
- Laura Kneale, directrice de la station CUTV : " Every week she spent at CUTV, she occupied a different role in the news collective from being a dynamic host, to a researcher, a video editor and creating a short public service announcement about the upcoming show to broadcast in our network. Syantha was also key in updating our website with new photos, banners and articles on our homepage. "

Highlights from a few testimonials following the first, summer 2010, edition:

- Sandrine Bédard-Brisson, Youth Work Experience program worker employed by Coop la maison verte: "The job gave me good exposure to the labour market. While I was at the coop, I learned to work faster and faster, cooperate with my fellow workers and get an understanding of how cooperatives work. The experience I gained at my summer job also helped me find a part-time job during the school year."
- Jason Hughes, Coop la maison verte: "We were happy to participate in the program and look forward to helping someone with their first job next year."
- Geneviève Plantin, Youth Work Experience program worker employed by Dagwoods: "Since Dagwoods clients are both French and English-speaking, my English improved a bit. During my first week, I had a really hard time understanding some English-speaking clients, especially when they had strong foreign accents. Then I got used to hearing them and now I understand people who speak English a lot better."
- Dave Tamas, Vice-President, Burritoville: "We were extremely happy with our experience in this program. Shadel was such a courteous, respectful and hard-working employee that we made the decision to keep her on for an additional 2 weeks after the program ended."
- Shadel Williams, employed by Burritoville: "I enjoyed my work experience at Burritoville. It was a pleasant and interesting place for me to work. I learned a lot at my job such as making new dishes and selling food to the clients. I am so thankful for having a job. Thank you very much."
